BASE BALL MATCH—The Lone Stars of Sham

and the Success of Oil City play their home and home match to-day at Boyd Farm. The time will be closely contested, as we learn that both Clubs have sent abroad for professional players, and considerable interest is felt in the match.

ACCIDENT TO A. N. DYER—On Monday evening a serious accident occurred to A. N. Dyer, a technician in the employ of Bryan, Dillingham &

Co., at their machine shop. Mr. Dyer was engaged the time in unsetting a blank for a rimmer, and gave the signal for the "striker" to stop, and he did not hearing the word in time to stop it, dealt a blow with his sledge-hammer, striking the third finger of Dyer's left hand, and causing it so badly that amputation became necessary.

FAIRY VISION.—The finest carcass of venison at has yet made its appearance was brought in yesterday. It was a large fat doe, and turned at 165 pounds. We are told that it was shot by Ash Hubbard, yesterday morning, about seven miles from Titusville. Tom Goodwin, who is ways on the lookout for luxuries of the season, grace the tables of the City Restaurant, bought the critter for $35, and people who want plenty duck and juicy roasts should let in their doors right away, or what is better, let Goodwin serve them up in his own superior style.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC CONFERENCE of the Methodist Episcopal Church meets to-day at Franklin to hold its annual session.

The territory of this conference embraces the jurisdiction of Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Venango,

Union, Jefferson, and parts of Lawrence, Butler and Elk in this State, and in Ohio, Ashtabula,

Summit, Lake, Geauga, Portage, and parts of Cuyahoga and Summit; also, Chautauque, and part of Cattaraugus counties in New York. At the conference were reported 280 settled pastors,

10 lay preachers and about 35,000 church members; also, 523 Sunday-schools, having a membership of over 45,000, teachers and scholars.

The conference opened 387 churches and 143 parsonages, valued at one million and one half dollars, and the contributions of the churches to the cause were about $25,000. This conference is one of seventy annual conferences which compose the Methodist Church of the United States, exclusively the Methodist Episcopal Church South, which split off from a parent church in 1844 because of its protest against slavery.

FROM MEADVILLE.

Titusville Court Messrs.—How County Commissioners do Business—The Burgess and Council Collectors—Damages for P. & P. Plank Road Company—Political Gossip, etc.

From our own Correspondent.

MEADVILLE, Sept. 27th, 1899.

Among the causes of special interest to Titusville, last week was the suit of the County of Crawford against Ames and Council, for the recovery of $50,000 or more, alleged by the Commissioners to be due the county on tax duplicate issued to B. S. Burgess in 1905. The history of the case is substantially as follows, and is worthy of perusal as illustrating the careless manner, in which County Commissioners are in the habit of transacting business for the people whom they represent.

It appears that in 1905 B. S. Burgess, then filling the office of Justice of the Peace in Titusville, received from the Commissioners the appointment of tax collector for Titusville. His duplicate, amounting to about $10,500, was forwarded to him, together with a bond which he was to execute for the faithful performance of his duties, and returned to the Commissioners for record. But for some unexplained reason, Burgess never executed the bond—perhaps because he could not obtain the sureties—and upon his own responsibility, he turned it over to Charles Cannell, who, at that time, was employed as policeman. Cannell's name was substituted in the bond, and F. W. Ames, J. T. Chase, and the late Dr. Jennings became his sureties. This bond was returned to the Commissioners, but there is no record when it was filed. The Commissioners have no receipt for the duplicate issued to Burgess, nor did they issue any duplicate to Cannell.

The testimony of all parties shows that the taxes were collected by B. S. Burgess, Charles Cannell and Frank Burgess, son of the first named. Cannell states that he collected and paid over to the Commissioners $3,300. Burgess senior testifies that he collected and paid Cannell $1,500, but took no receipt for the same, and Burgess junior testifies that he collected about $2,400, paid Cannell $1,400 and took a receipt, which receipt according to Cannell is a forgery, and the remaining $1,000 it is alleged went to the Commissioners. Thus, according to the three collectors, the sum of $7,500 was collected by them on a duplicate of $10,500, but somehow only about $4,400 was paid into the county treasury. What because of the balance is a matter of conjecture. The Commissioners sued the bondsmen for $6,000, the amount of the claim with interest, and a year ago obtained a verdict for about $4,600. The case was carried to the Supreme Court, where the judgment was reversed on the ground of certain testimony having been excluded. Last week a verdict was rendered for $2,100, but a motion was made for a new trial. Nobody could have listened to the testimony in this case without astonishment. It was marked by the strongest contradictions throughout, and of course the blackest perjury, and after hearing both sides the jury must have been in a state of as perfect bewilderment as your correspondent. The case was very ably defended by Messrs. Douglas and Guthrie, who are quite confident of a second reversal of the judgment by the Supreme Court.

The Titusville and Pithole plank road company are to be congratulated upon a verdict against the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company for $9,515.59. The suit was brought for the non delivery of plank shipped from Wilder station, about three miles from Corry, in the fall of 1895. A portion of the plank was shipped, but the remainder was left at the station to be hauled to Titusville by train, and about 700,000 feet of the plank was burned at the station. The jury in finding the bill of damages against the R. R. Co. predicted the estimate upon 3,065,000 feet at $3.75 per thousand, but in their astronomical struggle to accomplish that result, they mistook their multiple 3 for a 2, and accordingly gave the plaintiffs $4,600 less than they originally intended. The mistake was not discovered till after the verdict was rendered, when it was a little too late to make the correction.

The political plot is settling a little, and some of the sorcerers have been poking the fire lively, hoping to make it boil over. The conspiracy this fall in local politics is aimed to defeat Henry Johnson's election to the Assembly. There was a good deal of whispering when he got the nomination, and there are some fellows who give almost their bottom dollar to elect a Democrat. The plot, however, doesn't thicken as much as it did, and the indications are that it will miscarry altogether. The plan seems to have been to organize a workingmen's party, and nominate one Democrat and one Republican for the Assembly. John C. Bryan, of Titusville, was the Republican talked of, for it was believed he would get a solid vote there, and with the help of the afflicted Republicans in the centre and other sections it was believed he would make the rift. It is understood that a committee waited upon John and tendered him the nomination, but he positively declined, saying he was too good a Republican to help pull Democratic chestnuts out of the fire. So the committee next decided to take a Democrat from Titusville and a Republican from Meadville, and it is probably no breach of confidence to say that George S. Stewart, of Titusville, is "the coming man." George used to live here, and is recognized as a pretty clever fellow, barring his Democracy. Others are in favor of Frank B. Guthrie, of your city, who is the grittiest little Democrat in Crawford county, and would probably run better in Titusville on the new county question than any other member of his party. But the chances are that the whole scheme will fall through, and that Johnson and Ames will be elected without extraordinary opposition, and that you will get your new county bill through the Legislature next winter in spite of all combinations against it.

Then the people will rally it. Everybody concedes the justice of your claims, and it will be a good thing for all parties when this vexatious issue is disposed of, and Titusville is allowed to depart in peace.

R. K. LIND.

A FIGHT WITH BURGOLARS.—The store of A. C. Gleason, of Mayville, was entered on the night of Wednesday the 28th inst., about 12 o'clock, by two burglars. Mr. Akam was upstairs in bed, and was awakened by the noise, and getting up went to the head of the stairs, when he saw a light or lantern. He then went back, loaded a shot gun, and on his return could see nothing but the light, which he fired at and smashed to atoms. One of the thieves then ran up stairs, and Akam struck him with the stock of the gun, then climbed him. The thief drew a knife and struck Akam on the hip; but in spite of the wound, he managed to push the thief down stairs, and then both thieves left by way of the back door.

Akam came down stairs to look around, and found he had pulled out the thief's watch; he likewise found a coat and pocket book with forty six dollars in it. The burglars had taken down several satchels and filled them, but did not take them away. A reward of $100 is offered for the apprehension of either of the thieves, of whom several parties are in pursuit.

THE BRONZ REVEL.—The late trade sale of books in New York affords a striking illustration of the effect of the recent articles relative to the domestic life of Lord Byron. More than ten thousand copies of his works, of various editions and style of binding, were taken by the trade, a quantity quite unprecedented in the history of the trade sale.

MONDAY was "raw and gloomy day"—just the weather to set the ladies to asking what is to be done this fall, and to send them to Fletcher's to look out the modes and the prices. And it was a busy day there; the clerks had their heads full, and the ladies looked at everything rich and plain, and found nothing lacking in the assortment. They will always find it so, and will call again.

REMARKS.—There is no ordinance in force prohibiting peddling of meats by farmers. Such an ordinance was passed by the Council, but it failed to receive the sanction of the Mayor, and is therefore inoperative.

REMARKS.—There is no ordinance in force prohibiting peddling of meats by farmers. Such an ordinance was passed by the Council, but it failed to receive the sanction of the Mayor, and is therefore inoperative.

MONDAY was "raw and gloomy day"—just the weather to set the ladies to asking what is to be done this fall, and to send them to Fletcher's to look out the modes and the prices. And it was a busy day there; the clerks had their heads full, and the ladies looked at everything rich and plain, and found nothing lacking in the assortment. They will always find it so, and will call again.

The Gold Panic.

"A burnt child shuns the fire," and the lesson of the late Wall street panic will not be lost upon speculators. This class is not confined to New York, but all over the country are men, who are engaged in stock gambling in the metropolitan. There was no reasonable cause for the rise in gold. There is not the slightest prospect of a war with Spain. The government, financially speaking, was embarrassed, and its credit impaired; the crops are abundant and the business prospects for fall trade as good as can be desired. The "bulls" could not have set up such a game, unless there were fools and dupes enough to swallow all sorts of canards. Thanks to the intervention of the government, the reaction has come, but not without disturbing commercial relations, and the standards of value. For such another emergency, should it arise, which is doubtful, government will be prepared, by entering the market itself. But the sure remedy for the evil in the resumption of specie payments, a commutation at which the Administration is steadily aiming.
